MO'IEUR GROUNDHOG.

Didn't See His Shadow To-day—Therefore "Hooray!"

People with low coal-bins and others with a longing for the good old summer time plucked up courage to-day, when they watched the groundhog come out of his hole and look for his shadow, for not a shadow did Mo'sieur Grandhog discover. It was one of those drab days, which are better described as the "cold gray dawn of the morning after," with everything gloomy and not a friend on earth. The sky was overcast and spitting snow long before the sun had a chance to assert itself; and it kept up the proceeding throughout the greater part of the day.

Now all this means, according to the popular superstition, that winter is on its last legs, or rather on the last lap of the race. In other words, it will not be so long now as it might be, while still long enough. Nevertheless, keep out your mittens.

MONTPELIER.

City Has $2,500 Left in General Fund, $11,177.65 in Water Department.

The city council held a special session Tuesday afternoon to clear up the work of the year and found the finances in an excellent condition. The balance due on a temporary loan of $13,500, made by the Capital Savings bank on January 31, 1902, was paid. It amounted to $4,000, and of this $1,500 came from the unused funds voted for the school department and the rest from the general fund. The unexpended balance in the treasury is about $2,500, which is to run the city during this month. The balance in the water department is $11,177.65.

Dr. E. A. Bishop has just returned from his western trip, which included a visit to Dr. D. K. Pearson, who contributed heavily to the endowment fund of Montpelier seminary, and attendance at the meeting of the Association of Presidents of College and Principals of Secondary Schools of the Methodist church. Meetings were held at Green castle and Indianapolis, Ind., January 31 and 19, at which Dr. Bishop was elected vice president of the association. A banquet was held and many prominent educators of the Methodist institutions were present, there being in all 65 presidents and principals. Dr. Bishop gave an address on "School and College Accounting," February 21, a meeting of the principals and vice presidents of the New England Methodist institutions is to be held in Boston, at which time five secondary schools in New England are to be named. The five to be thus prominently brought before the eye of the public were named at the Indiana meeting, and Montpelier seminary is one.

An entertainment of rare merit was that given at the Barre opera house by the College Singing Girls and Walter Eccles from the White-Redpath bureau, under the auspices of the Baptist church of this city, last evening. A fair-sized audience enjoyed the clever character impersonations by Mr. Eccles and the graceful step dancing by eight young ladies, and were very much pleased with the singing of the young ladies in solos, quartets and double quartets. The rapid change in apparel following each exit from the stage was not the least remarkable feature of the performance, and their wardrobe was quite extensive.

DREAMLAND THEATER

Programme for Today

The Last Of The Saxons.

An historical drama embodying the love story of King Harold of England and Lady Edith and the battle of Hastings.

The Swiss Guide.

A story of the Canadian Alps. The scenery is extremely beautiful, and the drama, which might be called the Idyl of the Rockies, blends with it most harmoniously.

The Count That Counted.

An uproariously funny comedy.

Max in a Dilemma.

Another Max Luder comedy.

Micro Cinematography.

Recurrent fever.
